It is difficult to achieve success in the development of our country without raising human morale. A spiritually free and free people can achieve great things in any field due to deep and complete thinking. In other words, only a spiritually healthy, strong society can be ready for reform. This article discusses the harmonious development of the generation and the fact that their knowledge is the basis of the development of Uzbekistan.

Keywords: youth, society, development, future, progress, rise, spirituality, educated generation.

INTRODUCTION

Youth is the future of any society. They are, in fact, the greatest wealth of Uzbekistan, a priceless treasure. After all, the youth of the new Uzbekistan is the foundation of our future and prospects. "As an educated generation, you know that our country was one of the cradles of world civilization in the past. You are the descendants of Khorezmians, Fergana, Beruni and Ibn Sino, Ulugbek, Navoi and Babur, Bukhari, Termez. It also serves all mankind," said President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoyev.

Talented young people play an important role in the governance of the state and society, in the development of business, and in the development of the industry as a whole. Because they are the "new blood" of society. The views and efforts of this group play an important role in promoting new initiatives and introducing modern ways of doing things. Our country is a country of happy young people, about 64% of the population is young people under 30 years old. Of course, this requires a great deal of attention and care, given the great responsibility of our state, and on the other hand, the attention paid to our youth will bring great success and results tomorrow. Because now more than half Uzbekistan's labor force is young. In the future, every third leader will be young. Therefore, today in our country, special attention is paid to the education of aspiring and energetic young people with modern knowledge and skills, who can take responsibility for a decent future of the country. Just as a person's greatness is not measured by his height, so a nation's greatness is not measured by numbers. The only dimension is his spirituality.

When we usually talk about spirituality, its meaning, its place and importance in our lives, we first need to know what spirituality is. Spirituality is a unique force that purifies a person spiritually, encourages him to grow in the heart, strengthens his inner world, will, faith and conscience, and is the criterion of all his views.

Spirituality permeates a person's blood and bones for years with mother's milk, family upbringing, ancestral teachings, sense of homeland, and sometimes bitter, sometimes joyful lessons of this life. . In particular, closeness to nature, people, always thinking of the good, honest work, enjoying the incomparable blessings and beauties of the world nourish and strengthen spirituality. The experience of the peoples of the world shows that where the state and society develop, if sufficient conditions are created for the people to live in peace, to set noble and great goals for themselves, there is an environment of free thinking and, on this basis, for spiritual growth. New opportunities arise.

Youth education - therefore, in our country, special attention is paid to creating favorable conditions for thorough education of young people. Because those who want to disrupt the peace of our society, the development of our country, often try to turn young people to their side. Therefore, efforts are being made to prevent young people from joining various vested interests, to fight against such forces, and to raise their morale.

Raising spirituality is, first of all, to strengthen the faith of young people, to strengthen their will, to bring them up as well-rounded people with their own independent thinking, not to forget their identity in their thinking, to preserve the sacred values of their ancestors. To decide the qualities of respect, to make them live with pride and pride that I am an Uzbek child. In all centuries, the future of the country was for the youth. The driving forces of revolution, progress and development were the youth. It was clear that the state would rely on them during the war, in the post-war period, in times of crisis. After all, these young, healthy people have raised new lands, built powerful buildings, created unimaginable dreams and brought them back to life. The task of the older generation is to help young people find their rightful place in this complex world. It is to realize themselves as much as possible, because the future of the city, the region, the country born in their hands - and everyone wants these hands to be strong and reliable!

Everything the state invests in young people is rewarded with results. Enlightened youth are the pillars on which the country always rests. If young people can instill in young people a sense of patriotism and love for their homeland, they in turn will put their hearts into its development and prosperity. In the history of all times and peoples, youth has always played a major role. And this is not in vain, because young people have active qualities - justice, courage, thirst for honor. If someone tends to feel only the flaws of their youth, we respond with the words of the American poet Louwilt: "Perhaps young people are immoral, but with age they are quickly healed." There is a lot of meaning behind this, and it's not hard to understand! Youth is a time when you want all problems to be solved quickly, obstacles to be easily overcome, and dreams to come true. This period should make full use of its potential. Young people need to understand that their ideas are probably dangerous, fantastic, but clearly developed somewhere, and will help their adult colleagues improve in the country. Today's young people are able to modernize their forces and direct them in a spiritually closer direction. The enthusiasm of young people, innovative solutions to many problems, bright ideas, the ability to achieve their goals are always in demand in our society.

The future of our state is that we are today's youth. If we do not educate and educate our youth now, we will never develop and move forward. Because if we look at the developed countries, these countries have reached this level, first of all, by educating the youth. As our ancestors said, "Where there is science, there is greatness." This statement is now clearly confirmed. Because time is moving so fast, if we don't read today, it will be too late tomorrow. Let's take the field of information technology as an example. Today's innovations in this area are becoming obsolete tomorrow and require us to train highly qualified personnel.

In conclusion, we can say that in our country we need to become strong educated people, taking advantage of the opportunities provided to young people. In addition to the fact that young people are interested in their own professions, the measures taken to attract them to sports have also increased. After all, our wise people say, "A healthy mind in a healthy body." Today we must preserve our spirituality, be a worthy child who can be a solid foundation for the future of the country, take a courageous step towards our noble goals, realize that we are the footprints of great ancestors, our ancient history and rich culture, the heritage of our great ancestors. We must deeply think, consciously think independently of today's rapidly changing realities of life and live with a sense of involvement in all the processes taking place in our homeland, and most importantly, wholeheartedly preserve the independence inherited from our father. I am convinced that a nation with such unique, humane qualities, high spirituality, full of zeal and courage, will never depend on anyone, will certainly achieve its noble goals.
