ABSTRACT

The article expresses an opinion on problems such as analyzing the features of spiritual development and spiritual renewal in society in the process of globalization and learning ways to use the results of spiritual growth.

Keywords: globalization process, intelligence, wealth, life, inequality, stratification, democracy, growth, spirituality, maturity .

In the first years of our independence, the principle "Reforms are not for the sake of reforms, but reforms are for people" was put forward in our country. Any reforms, renewals are built on the basis of the human mind and thinking, heart and feelings, as well as national-spiritual factors of the society. It is known that in the 21st century, as the intellectual potential of mankind grows, so do its needs. He strives to live better today than yesterday, and tomorrow even more, to achieve material and spiritual perfection and live a prosperous life. In fact, this is the essence of human development, its law and philosophy of living. "We will mobilize all the strength and capabilities of our state and society so that our youth can become independent thinkers, have high intellectual and spiritual potential, become people who are not inferior to their peers in any field in the world, and be happy" [1].

In fact, if it were not for this desire, people would not be different from other creatures. So , what is wrong with his aspirations and actions? The problem is that the balance between the desire for material benefit and the need to develop spirituality in accordance with it is manifested in these aspirations. When the countries that have developed this to a high level are creating the most modern types of science, technology and technology with their huge intellectual potential , at the same time, they are using the most disgusting methods of obtaining raw materials available in the regions , in which the people of the region are first of all materially dependent and on this basis , they can be seen in the practice of destroying their own spirituality and instead promoting their own spirituality.

Of course, science, technology and technology, on the one hand, as the fruit of the intelligence of all mankind, serve the interests of all peoples living on the Earth , and on the other hand, the inequality in their use, in the relations between people, nations and peoples, whoever is materially strong, others are "submissive" to him. ” , the principle of being forced to accept his spirituality is more and more being applied, and the spiritual impoverishment is becoming more and more visible in a situation where human intelligence is rising to a high level . Globalization processes taking place on a global scale are responsible for the emergence and development of this process showing its effect .

That is why , in recent times , the processes of globalization the number of scientists and experts studying various fields is increasing . In fact, globalization is a complex social phenomenon that has emerged since the second half of the 20th century . At first, it happened spontaneously , but later it became an important factor in the development of the economy .

"Globalization" was first mentioned by the American scientist T. It was used by Levitt in his 1983 article in the Harvard Business Review. In 1985, Kim Roland Robertson described the process of learning globalization as a set of objective processes aimed at making the world a single whole .[2] This phenomenon led to the formation of different views.

Globalization refers to the gradual convergence (integration) of the countries of the world starting from the second half of the 20th century , and the expansion of the spheres of influence on each other. Various economic, political and social changes taking place in the world at the present time are so interconnected that their influence on almost all spheres of human and social life can be observed everywhere, in all countries.

Today, the development and prosperity of any country is becoming so closely connected with other regions and regions on the world scale that it is becoming increasingly clear that no country can stay away from this process.

Strengthening the mutual relations of all economic systems in the world, interstate economic trade, development of political relations, in short, the formation of a single huge society on earth - the main manifestations of globalization.

Globalization is becoming an important factor of economic growth worldwide. The acceleration of globalization processes has a positive effect on the development of science and culture.

Globalization is an objective process associated with socio-political, economic, scientific-technological and spiritual convergence of the countries of the world. This process creates ample opportunities for global economic growth.

Globalization is manifested in the improvement of communications between nations and countries. No part of the world can be free from the influence of these communications. They are creating opportunities for the widespread promotion of freedom, humanity and human rights. Socio-political globalization plays an important role in maintaining peace and stability on Earth.

Therefore, it is necessary to take into account that globalization has its own negative aspects, to study them and find ways to eliminate them. Undoubtedly, the world scientific community and scientists are faced with the task of in-depth analysis of the problems related to globalization processes. We can include the following in such problems :

First, the growing social inequality and stratification on a global scale;

Secondly, as a result of this, the differences between rich and poor countries deepen and many countries become more and more dependent on developed large countries;

Thirdly, to realize that the problems of underdeveloped countries and some regions can be global and rise to the level of a global problem;

Fourthly, timely attention should be paid to the situations of severe tension occurring in some countries and regions;

Fifth, it includes taking measures to prevent natural imbalances at the regional, state, and global levels.

It should be emphasized that the solution of these problems is directly related to the level of economic growth, peace, development and democracy in the current conditions. Therefore, the issue of studying the impact of globalization processes is becoming more and more important.

Globalization is exerting its influence on all the countries of the world. One of them is to use the consequences of globalization for our own benefit and divert them to serve the development of society.

Sh for him In the current globalization process, it is important to overcome the following important tasks through national and spiritual factors :

First, it is necessary to study all social processes related to globalization and analyze the stages and directions of these processes (political, economic, technological, spiritual).

Secondly, it is important to study the impact of the globalization process on people's social life and to take into account that along with reforms in the economic and political spheres, taking into account the consequences of globalization, spiritual renewal is one of the necessary conditions for strengthening independence .

Thirdly, it is necessary to find ways to minimize the negative consequences of globalization and turn them towards the development of society.

Fourth, what are the unique and unrepeatable aspects of national culture and values By studying the impact on social and political processes and developing modern values that have a positive effect on the expansion of national thinking and intellectual resources, it is possible to use the globalization process for positive purposes and achieve the stability of the national-spiritual environment.

Therefore, in the process of globalization, it is necessary to analyze the characteristics of spiritual development and spiritual renewal in society, and to study ways of using the results of spiritual growth . is of great theoretical and practical importance.
